WELCOME TO THE DEPARTMENT OF FRENCH AND ITALIAN

Many opportunities for the study of French, and Italian await you both here at OSU and in our study abroad programs in France, Canada, Senegal, and Italy. We are glad that you are considering a major or minor in French, Italian, Italian Studies, and/or Romance Studies and are planning to use your knowledge of the language to enhance your global career opportunities and to increase your ability to communicate with speakers of French and Italian.

This handbook describes the academic programs in the Department of French and Italian and provides information about departmental majors and minors. If you are interested in a major or minor in French or Italian or a major in Romance Studies stop by our departmental office (200 Hagerty Hall) or visit the department's web site (<http://frit.osu.edu>) for further information concerning the department's programs, policies and activities.

Today's students often combine majors and minors with a second (or even third) major or minor. You might be interested in knowing that students from many different departments are continuing their study of French and Italian beyond the required GEC courses. Students in French and Italian also major or minor in subjects as varied as Arabic, Architecture, Art History, Biology, Biomedical Science, Business, Communications, Comparative Studies, Computer Systems Engineering, English, Exercise Science, Hospitality Management, International Studies, Italian, Japanese, Linguistics, Logistics, Microbiology, Molecular Genetics, Nursing, Nutrition, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, Russian, Spanish and Textiles. If you are interested in examples of how to fast-track a double major, see our 'Double your major, double your value' page (<https://frit.osu.edu/undergrad/italian-studies-major/double-major>). If you are interested in more information about career opportunities in which you can use your language, we invite you to visit the Center for Languages, Literatures, and Cultures' Career page (<https://cllc.osu.edu/undergraduate/careers>). To see what a number of recent undergraduate alumni in French and Italian are doing with their degrees, see the Why Study French or Italian? page at <https://frit.osu.edu/why-study-french-and-italian>.

We invite you to participate in French Club and Italian Club activities. You can enjoy coffee and conversation at Café+ (which takes place in the Crane Café in Hagerty Hall). Check the schedule of the Crane Café to see when you can watch French and Italian television programs (<https://cllc.osu.edu/http%3A/wmcc.osu.edu/cranecafe.htm/crane-café>).

THE UNDERGRADUATE MAJOR

Scope and Goals of the Major Program

We offer our students the most effective and relevant instruction in French, Francophone, and Italian languages, literatures, and cultures. Our courses provide a wide perspective on Italian and French culture, and include topics such as migration, sex and love, fashion and material culture, modern media, Italian identities, the languages of Italy and food. In addition, the Department offers study abroad opportunities in France, Italy, Quebec, and Senegal as well as internship opportunities in Italy. The undergraduate majors in French and Italian are designed to maximize students' ability to understand, speak, read, and write a foreign language and to develop an informed appreciation of its literature(s) and culture(s). Our goal is to develop students' intercultural competency and guide them to understand the skills that they develop so that they can express to future employers what they have to offer as multilingual, culturally and interculturally competent job candidates. Although no program can be more than what each student chooses to make of it, an undergraduate major in French, Italian, French Studies or Italian Studies will be both an intellectual and a practical enterprise. It will provide the learner with insight into his or her own culture as well as into French, Francophone, and/or Italian cultures, and it can also lead to a variety of career opportunities.

Careers for Foreign Language Majors

As a field of humanistic learning, language study serves the larger aims of liberal education by producing well-rounded, informed, and tolerant individuals who can excel in a variety of careers. More and more, employers are choosing liberal arts majors over narrowly trained technical specialists, because their superior communication skills give them a distinct advantage in the business and professional worlds. Increasing competition and the development of a global economy have combined to make the foreign language major more attractive than ever. In addition to business, there are also career opportunities in education, law, government, international relations, and many other fields. There is a national shortage of people who have experience with world languages, despite the need in the emerging global economy. Now is the time to study a world language. The Department encourages students to consider a double major, combining French or Italian with another discipline. The Arts and Sciences Career Services Office, 48 Townsend Hall, <http://ascareerservices.osu.edu>, distributes an information packet on Careers in Foreign Languages and has qualified personnel who can help in job placement. For more details on this subject, students should also consult the Center for Foreign Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in 100 Hagerty Hall, and are encouraged to visit the CLLC careers in Foreign Languages website (<http://cllc.osu.edu/undergraduate/careers>), 292-4361. To see what recent undergraduate alumni in French and Italian are doing with their degrees, visit Why Study French or Italian? at <https://frit.osu.edu/why-study-french-and-italian>

Beginning a Major

It is not necessary to have made a firm decision to major in French, Italian, or Italian Studies in order to consider the program and even to enroll provisionally in it. All programs require careful planning, and the sooner students begin to think about one in an organized manner, the more likely they will be to master the subject. For this reason, students interested in a major are encouraged to explore it as early as possible, preferably during the first or second year, but certainly no later than the beginning of the junior year.

Entry into the Department of French and Italian in the College of Arts and Sciences (ASC) can be through direct enrollment for any new first-semester freshman whose primary interest is in French or Italian or by transfer from another college. Although it is possible to delay entry up to 60 hours, no student should wait beyond 50 hours of earned credit. Once a student is enrolled through ASC as a French or Italian major, the department will assign a faculty advisor to him or her. The student can find out from FRIT's Academic Program Coordinator, Ms. Sonya Afanasyeva (Afanasyeva.1, 200 Hagerty Hall), who his or her faculty advisor is and should schedule an appointment with that faculty advisor to discuss curriculum and goals. Non-honors FRIT majors will also be assigned to the ASC advisor who works directly with FRIT, Dr. Andy Spencer (spencer.4@osu.edu, Hagerty 355). (Honors students will continue to work with an advisor in the ASC Honors Program office in 3180 Smith Lab). Non-honors students transferring from another college should meet with Dr. Spencer in Hagerty 355 in order to complete the transfer and declare the French or Italian major. Dr. Spencer will be able to help students fulfill both major and GE degree requirements, drop or add courses, change or add minors and majors, and make other administrative adjustments to their curriculum. Faculty advisors can help students devise research projects, set academic and professional goals, acquire information on graduate programs, and generally gain some of the knowledge and tools they need to be successful at Ohio State and beyond.

Please note that it is extremely important that new non-honors students declare their French, Italian or Italian Studies major with Dr. Spencer in Hagerty 355 in order to be included on the departmental list and to have a faculty advisor assigned to them. Double majors should also inform him of their second major at that time. Students who do not appear in person in Hagerty 355 to be assigned a faculty advisor will not be officially registered as majors. It should be noted that the faculty advisor is charged with the major program only. Students with questions concerning other degree requirements should consult Dr. Spencer or another ASC advisor if they are a double major.

Major Program

The major program is a list of all the courses that constitute the student's major field of study and is a final contract of graduation. It is entered on a Major Program Form that is filled out in consultation with the major advisor (Andy Spencer, Spencer.4) and filed with ASC. As soon as a student's major program can be determined, and certainly no later than the junior year, a Major Program Form should be completed and filed. Any subsequent changes in the program should be discussed with the major advisor and indicated on a Revision of Major Form.

It is important for students to stay in touch with their major advisor through regular consultations, preferably once every semester, but at least once a year. Changes of address, especially e-mail addresses, should be reported to Ms. Sonya Afanasyeva.¹ so that students may receive mailings about courses and special events of interest to them. Ms. Afanasyeva should also be informed if a student decides to discontinue his or her major or minor in French or Italian.

A course in which a student receives a grade lower than C- cannot be counted toward the major. A student who receives such a grade must notify his or her major advisor in order to determine whether to repeat the course or choose a substitute. The credit hours for a repeated course shall in no case be counted more than once in meeting graduation requirements. When a student repeats a course, both grades appear on the student's record and both are used in computing the point-hour ratio

Placement Testing and Transfer/Deferred Credit

All students whose last course in French or Italian was in junior high and/or senior high school are required to take a placement test. See the section in this handbook on "Foreign Language Placement Testing" for instructions. If you have credits in either French or Italian to transfer from another college or university, please see the section on "Transfer/Deferred Credit Procedures."

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUBS

OSU FRENCH CLUB (Le Cercle Français)

Le Cercle français offers all students of French the opportunity to get involved, to run for office, and to practice French at weekly gatherings throughout the year. Activities include a spring picnic to host French exchange students from Nantes, slide presentations on study abroad programs, Christmas caroling, field trips to museums and to French restaurants for meals, and the showing of French films. To join, a student need only attend a meeting. Academic year meeting arrangements are made on a semester basis. For further information, go to <https://frit.osu.edu/undergrad/french/activities> or contact the Department of French and Italian at 292-4938.

CAFÉ +

Café+ is an informal French conversation group sponsored by the French and Italian Graduate Student Association (FIGSA). The group meets weekly in the Crane Café on the first floor of Hagerty Hall. The goal of the group is to improve conversational skills and build knowledge of current events in the Francophone world. Students of all levels are encouraged to attend. For students in 1000-level French classes, attending the meetings is a way to earn additional points for their participation grades. At each meeting, the conversations will be facilitated by at least one FIGSA member, but sometimes more. Announcements regarding meeting times will be posted at <https://frit.osu.edu/undergrad/resources-students-french/conversation-groupsfree-tutoring> as well as on flyers in Hagerty Hall.

ITALIAN CONVERSATION PRACTICE

Conversation practice for extra credit is available for students in Italian 1101-1103. Students meet individually with instructors for 15-minute conversation sessions. The schedule of meeting times will be announced in class and posted on Carmen during the first week of the semester. Meetings will begin in the second week and continue through the last week of classes. Students who attend conversations are given an attendance slip to verify their participation. Each three conversation meetings counts as one extra point in your course grade, up to a total of three points for nine or more meetings. Attendance at some departmental events may also count toward extra credit. These will also be announced in class and posted on Carmen.

ITALIAN CLUB

The Italian Club offers all students of Italian and those with an interest in Italian language and culture the opportunity to meet with other students and native speakers throughout the year. Activities include movies, card games, cooking lessons and presentations. For more information go to <https://frit.osu.edu/undergrad/italian/activities> .

THE UNDERGRADUATE MINOR

Note:

- Minor programs are not required for graduation.
- A student may not do a major and a minor in the same subject.
- Courses counted toward the minor may not also be counted toward the major unless prior approval has been secured from the Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee.

The following guidelines govern the minor program in French and Italian:

1. Students intending to complete a minor in Italian should contact Andy Spencer (Spencer.4), who will put them in contact with the Italian minor advisor. Students must also register with their college office.

Students interested in a minor in French are asked to contact the Department's minor advisor (Dr. Gloria Torrini-Roblin at torrini-roblin.1) to discuss their career or personal goals and the minor option that best suits these goals. Students should then file the Minor form with the Arts and Sciences Academic Advisor for French (Dr. Andy Spencer at spencer.4).

2. A Minor Program Form must be filled out with the appropriate minor advisor and filed with ASC, either prior to or when filing for graduation, that is, no later than two semesters before the student plans to graduate.
3. Any changes in the filed minor program must be approved by the minor advisor, and a revised Minor Program Form must be filed.
4. Transfer credit hours allowed: No more than one half of the credit hours required may be applied to the minor.
5. No grade below a C- will be permitted in courses counted toward the minor; the minimum cumulative point-hour ratio of the minor is 2.0.
6. Courses taken on a pass/non-pass basis may not be applied to the minor.

HONORS

The Honors Program is for students who seek greater challenges than are afforded in the regular major. Additional benefits of being an Honors student can be found at <http://honors-scholars.osu.edu/>. Students are awarded Honors status from the University Honors & Scholars Center upon admission to the university, based on standardized test scores and high school class rank. Students with 1 semester of OSU credit (15 semester credit hours) and an OSU cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 may also join the Honors Program by applying at the Arts & Sciences Honors Office (3180 Smith Lab, <http://aschonors.osu.edu/>).

To maintain Honors status, students must maintain a minimum 3.4 cumulative GPA, complete at least six honors or 4000-level classes over the course of your freshman and sophomore years, and submit an Honors Contract or Honors Thesis Application at the conclusion of your second year of study. Both allow the student wide latitude in the choice of courses, while requiring a significantly stronger program than the traditional major.

Honors Contract

The Honors Contract allows students to develop a liberal arts curriculum which, upon approval by the ASC Honors Committee, admits them to candidacy for graduation with Honors in Arts & Sciences. The Honors Contract is likely to include Honors courses, upper-level courses to meet General Education Curriculum Requirements, seminars, advanced course sequences, and, often, more than the minimal number of hours required for the degree. The major area of emphasis may be a single discipline or a combination of disciplines.

An Honors Contract is arranged in close consultation with the French and Italian Honors advisor and should be submitted by the end of your second year of study. To graduate with Honors in Arts & Sciences, students must complete the Honors Contract and have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.4 on at least 60 graded semester hours at Ohio State. This will be noted on your diploma and transcript.

The Honors Research Thesis

The Honors Research Thesis requires a thesis on a special topic of the student's choice written under the supervision of a faculty member. The thesis generally involves from one to two semesters of work. During the junior or senior year, the student registers for a minimum of 4 to a maximum of 10 semester hours of credit of 4999H in French and 3-9 semester credit hours in Italian, while preparing the thesis. It is followed by a one-hour oral examination on the general topic of the thesis before three faculty members, two from the French and Italian faculty and one from another discipline or department. Normally, the French and Italian Honors advisor should be one of the French and Italian faculty members on the examining committee. Students who complete and successfully defend the thesis will graduate with honors research distinction if their minimum cumulative grade point average is 3.4 on at least 60 graded Ohio State semester credit hours.

Undergraduate research and thesis

If you are not an honors student, you can still do research or a thesis. If you are interested in writing a research paper under the guidance of a professor, with permission of a professor you can enroll in up to three hours of French or Italian 4998: Undergraduate research. If you would like to write a thesis and graduate with “Research Distinction” in French or Italian (a mark that is permanently featured on a student’s diploma and transcript), you may enroll in Italian or French 4999. A thesis provides an undergraduate with the best preparation for graduate work, removing some of the mystery and trepidation from pursuing a master’s, doctoral or professional degree. Completing a formal thesis contributes favorably to, and is sometimes expected of, a student’s graduate or professional school applications! Letters of recommendation from faculty members are much stronger if a student completes a thesis. Go to: <http://undergraduateresearch.osu.edu/index.htm> for more information.

Undergraduate Research Scholarships and Small Grants

- 1) Each autumn and spring, the Honors Office in Arts and Sciences administers a competition for research scholarships for students who are candidates for graduation with research distinction. Deadlines for submitting proposals to the Honors Office (3180 Smith Lab) are early-February and mid-September for the Spring and Autumn competitions.
- 2) Proposals for The Pressey Honors Grant of up to $750 may be submitted at any time during the year by students who are candidates for graduation with research distinction. Submit proposals to Lisa Abrams, University Honors and Scholars Center, Kuhn Honors and Scholars House, 220 West 12th Avenue).

Revised June 2018

MAJOR IN FRENCH

The following courses are prerequisites to the French major: 1101, 1102, 1103, and 2101.

No more than one half of the semester credit hours required on the major can be credit hours transferred to Ohio State from another institution and/or credit by examination. (In other words, at least one half of the major hours must be credit from completed OSU coursework.)

For students whose first semester at the Ohio State University (any campus) was Autumn 2017 or earlier, the following courses are required for the French major:

3101; 4100 (or 5101); and 8 other French courses at the 3000 level and above, at least two of which must be at the 4000 level or above. Students may count one pertinent 3-credit course taught in English, whether offered by this department or another, toward the major with the approval of their faculty advisor. The course in English may replace one 3000-level course in French.

For students whose first semester at Ohio State was Spring 2018 or later, the following courses are required for the French major:

3101; 4100 (or 5101); and 8 other French courses at the 3000 level and above, at least 2 of which must be at the 4000 level or above, and 1 more of which must be at the 5000 level. In other words, students must complete, at a minimum:

- 3101 and 4100
- 5 additional courses at the 3000 level or above (one of these may be replaced by an approved course in English), plus
- ◻ 3 additional courses at the 4000 level or above, at least 1 of which must be at the 5000-level

Students can choose from a wide variety of courses to complete their major, as the list of French courses below demonstrates. Here are just a few suggestions for how to tailor your program to your interests:

If you are particularly interested in using your French in a professional context (say you are pairing a minor or major in Business, Engineering, Education, International Studies, or Pre-medicine with a minor or major in French), we suggest you consider the following courses in particular: 3103 Conversation; 3401 and/or 3402, French and Francophone Cultures; 3501 French for the Professions; 4690, French for the Professions Internship; and 5102, Translation. Education majors in particular will benefit from 3301, Discovering Second Language Acquisition.

If you'd like to explore especially French-speaking cultures and societies across the globe (perhaps you are double majoring in International Studies, African-American and African Studies, Middle-Eastern Studies, History, or Comparative Studies), take a look at the following courses: 3202, Introduction to Francophone Literatures; 3402, Introduction to Francophone Cultures; 5205, Black Africa; 5206, North Africa; and 5207, Quebec; and 3403 and 4401 (variable topics courses) when they treat a subject that interests you.

If the written word—whether fiction, autobiography, essay, journalism, or other—is your passion (maybe you are double majoring in Communications, Journalism, English, or World Literatures), consider the 3200 and 5200 series of courses on French and Francophone literatures in their historical contexts from the Middle Ages to the 21st century.

If you love cinema or the visual arts in general, perhaps combine Film Studies, Moving-Image Production, Design, Theater, or History of Art with a French major or minor that includes 2801, French and Francophone Cinema; 4053, French and Italian Cinema; 5701, Topics in French and Francophone Cinema; 5702, Studies in Contemporary French Cinema; and/or 4401, a variable topics course that periodically treats cinema and comics.

FRENCH MINOR

The minor consists of 12 credit hours. No more than 6 hours of credit by examination (EM) and/or transfer credit can be applied to the minor.

Students interested in a minor in French are asked to contact the Department's minor advisor (Dr. Gloria Torrini-Roblin at torrini-roblin.1) to discuss their career or personal goals and to select the courses that best suit these goals. Students should then file the Minor form with the Arts and Sciences Academic Advisor for French (Dr. Andy Spencer at spencer.4). Any variation from the programs requires the approval of the minor advisor in the Department of French and Italian.

Prerequisite courses: French 1101, 1102, 1103, and 2101.01.

Required Courses: French 3101 and three additional courses taught in French at the 3000 level or above, at least one of which must be at the 4000 level or above.

Students minoring in French may petition to have one 3000- to 5000-level course offered by the Department of French and Italian but taught in English count toward their minor. Eligible students must have at least a 3.3 GPA in their French courses overall and include at least one 3000- to 5000-level literature, culture, or film course taught in French in their minor program. The course taught in English may not replace the required 4000- to 5000-level course taught in French. Students who would like to petition to count a course in English toward the minor should contact Dr. Andy Spencer at spencer.4.

Courses by Theme

Students can choose from a wide variety of courses to complete their minor. Here are just a few suggestions for how to tailor your program to your interests:

If you are interested in using your French in a professional context (say you are pairing a minor or major in Business, Engineering, Education, International Studies, or Pre-medicine with a minor or major in French), we suggest you consider the following courses in particular: 3103 Conversation; 3401 and/or 3402, French and Francophone Cultures; 3501 French for the Professions; 4690, French for the Professions Internship; and 5102, Translation. Education majors in particular will benefit from 3301, Discovering Second Language Acquisition.

If you'd like to explore French-speaking cultures and societies across the globe (perhaps you are double majoring in International Studies, African-American and African Studies, Middle-Eastern Studies, History, or Comparative Studies), take a look at the following courses: 3202, Introduction to Francophone Literatures; 3402, Introduction to Francophone Cultures; 5205, Black Africa; 5206, North Africa; and 5207, Quebec; and 3403 and 4401 (variable topics courses) when they treat a subject that interests you.

If you love cinema or the visual arts in general, perhaps combine Film Studies, Moving-Image Production, Design, Theater, or History of Art with a French major or minor that includes 2801, French and Francophone Cinema; 4053, French and Italian Cinema; 5701, Topics in French and Francophone Cinema; 5702, Studies in Contemporary French Cinema; and/or 4401, a variable topics course that periodically treats cinema and comics.

If the written word—whether fiction, autobiography, essay, journalism, or other—is your passion (maybe you are double majoring in Communications, Journalism, English, or World Literatures), consider the 3200 and 5200 series of courses on French and Francophone literatures in their historical contexts from the Middle Ages to the 21st century.

Revised June 2018

UNDERGRADUATE MAJOR IN ROMANCE STUDIES

In an increasingly global world, many students arrive at OSU with a desire to learn languages, and many already have background in one or more Romance languages (Italian, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Romanian) or Latin. This major is designed for students who are interested developing skills in three languages, Romance languages or Latin, and want to interact with ease in multiple cultures. In addition, Romance Studies majors have time in their schedule to complete a second major or one or two minors. Students are not required to have a background in a foreign language before starting this degree, but it is recommended. In order to be successful in this major and finish the degree in four years, students need to commit early and organize their course work carefully.

Pursuing Romance Studies at Ohio State

Upon admission to the university, students can declare a major in Romance Studies within the College of Arts and Sciences. If you have taken a Romance language in high school or have language skills because you have lived in a country in which a Romance language is spoken, you should take a placement test in that language (or those languages) in order to test out of courses and accelerate your time to degree. The following is a brief summary of the requirements for the Romance Studies major:

- Total 41-48 hours. This does not count the prerequisites for the primary and secondary language. However, note that the 1000-level language course prerequisite hours for the primary or secondary language count for the GE language requirement. In addition, many students test out of any number of elementary-level language courses.
- Choose one primary field, one secondary field, one tertiary field. (Romanian can only count as a tertiary field.)
- One required course taught in English taken in the Junior or senior year: Classics/Italian/Romance Linguistics 5051. This course is offered every two years.
- Nine credits of study abroad are required for all primary fields except Latin. Students who select Latin as their primary language are required to study abroad to satisfy their secondary language. If a language program only has six-credit SA options, students may take the remaining three credits on the OSU campus.
- Students who take service learning credits in one of their languages for the GE may also count these credits in the major.

Requirements for the Primary Field (8 courses, 24 credits: 15 credits at OSU, 9 credits abroad):

- Five courses (15 credits) beyond the 2000-level. (Latin: 7 courses at or beyond the 2000-level). For a detailed description of the course requirements for each language, see below.
- Three courses (9 credits) of study abroad in the primary field to be taken after the 2000-level has been completed at OSU. With this type of language preparation before departure it is expected that students will take content courses in the foreign country. (Student who select Latin as their primary language do not study abroad in the primary field but rather in the secondary field. See below.)

Requirements for the Secondary Field (9 credits)

3 courses beyond the 2000-level (Latin: Students study abroad to satisfy their secondary field requirement. As indicated above for the primary language, these are content courses, not language courses.)

Requirements for the Tertiary Field* (5-12 credits)

Basic language proficiency (depends on the options offered and the level into which a student tests: maximum number of credits: 12; minimum number of credits: 5)

All students are required to take Italian/Classics/Romance Linguistics 5051: Latin and the Romance Languages. The goal of this course is to give students the opportunity to bring the work that they are doing in the courses taught in the target language together and examine how the Romance languages are related and how they differ. This course does not require background knowledge in linguistics.

NOTE: Although this is not likely to occur frequently, students may also opt to do a second study abroad experience in their secondary or tertiary field. It is recommended that students who study abroad for credit for their secondary (or tertiary) field do so at the 1000-level.

Specific Language requirements for the Primary language

Note that courses beyond the 5000 level are included here because once students study abroad their language skills are such that they are able to take these courses.

Latin

Literature/Culture Courses: All courses at the 2000- and 5000-level
7 courses at or beyond the 2000 level.

Portuguese

Required: 3450; Choose 8 from: 3402, 3403, 4611, 4510, 4560, 4561, 4595, 4597.01, 4597.02, 5510, 5520, 5530, 5650, 6750 or 3401, 6730.

Three 3000-level courses (as described above); Five additional courses above the 3000-level; not more than one course taught in English may count. (The equivalents of three of these courses are taken abroad.)

Spanish

All Spanish courses at the 3000-, 4000- and 5000-level count toward the major. Students take three courses at the 3000-level, four courses at the 4000-level, one course at the 5000-level SENIOR SEMINAR or higher (this last course must be taken on campus); not more than one course taught in English WITHIN THE CONCENTRATION may count.

French

Select from: 3101, 3201, 3202, 3401, 3402 [francophone culture], 3403, 3701, 4101, 4103, 4102, 4401, 5201, 5202, 5203, 5204, 5205, 5206, 5207, 5401, 5402, 5403, 5701, 7102, and linguistics courses above the 4000-level.

Students must take two courses at or above the 3000-level and three courses at or above the 4000-level taught in French. (Students may always opt to take courses at a higher level to satisfy these requirements. For example, if instead of two 3000-level courses a student who selects French as their primary language may opt to take one 3000-level course and four courses at a higher level.) A total of 9 credits beyond the 2000-level are taken abroad and selected in consultation with the adviser. If a student selects a program that only offers six credits, the remaining three credits may be taken on campus.

Italian

All Italian courses taught in Italian at the 3000-, 4000- and 5000-level and graduate literature and culture courses above the 5000-level taught in Italian with permission of the instructor and the graduate school count toward the major.

Students must take two courses at or above the 3000 level, three courses at or above the 4000 level taught in Italian. (Students may always opt to take courses at a higher level to satisfy a particular requirement. For example, if instead of two 3000-level courses a student who selects Italian as their primary language may opt to take one 3000-level course and three 4000-level courses.) The remaining three courses (9 credits) are taken abroad and selected in consultation with the advisor.

Note: courses beyond the 5000 level are included here because once students study abroad their language skills are such that they are able to take these courses.

Advising

Upon enrolling in the Romance Studies major, students will be assigned an ASC advisor as well as an advisor in the department of their primary language. This advisor will be responsible for answering curricular questions and approving course changes.

The ASC advisors for the primary languages are:

Andy Spencer – French, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese

Mary Katherine Ramsey - Latin

The faculty advisors for each primary language are:

Italian – Janice M. Aski

French – Jennifer Willging

Latin – Director of Undergraduate Studies

Spanish and Portuguese – Director of Undergraduate Studies

If you are interested in a degree in Romance Studies, contact the undergraduate advisor in the department of your primary language as soon as possible in order to organize your course work.

Revised June 2018

FOREIGN LANGUAGE PLACEMENT TESTING AT OSU

1. What are the objectives of the Placement Tests?

The purpose of the language placement and proficiency tests is to determine which language course best fits the needs of students entering OSU with previous work in foreign languages.

2. Who takes the test?

All students who have had 2 or more years of the same foreign language must take the language placement test in the language used for unconditional admission, whether or not they plan to continue language study at OSU.

3. Who is responsible for the tests?

The Foreign Language Center is responsible for administering the French and Italian tests delivered by computer.

4. What does a Placement Test include?

The French and Italian Placement Tests are computerized exams that take approximately 30 minutes and test vocabulary, grammar, and reading comprehension. Requests for exceptions to the computerized format may be made through the Office for Disability Services.

5. How do you know what course you've placed into?

For French, placement into a course is made according to both placement test score and number of years of high school study. For Italian, placement is determined by your placement test score.

6. Will I receive EM credit as a result of my Placement test?

For Italian, you will receive EM credit for all courses below the level in which you place. In French, students who place into FR 1102 or higher will receive EM credit for courses below that level. Students who place into FR 1155 do not receive EM credit. No elementary language credit is awarded to native speakers, i.e., those whose secondary education was in the foreign language.

7. When do students take a Placement Test?

Students usually take the Placement Test during Orientation. If for some reason students are unable to take the test at Orientation, students may take the Placement Test during the scheduled times for the Semester, which are posted on the CLLC website: <https://cllc.osu.edu/undergraduate/testing>. It is strongly advised that you take your language courses as soon as you have taken the placement test. You may call the computer lab for availability (614) 292-4361. See (9) below.

8. How do students find out the test results?

When students take the French and Italian computerized language Placement Tests, results are obtained immediately.

9. What happens if students take an examination intending to obtain EM (examination) credit only and some time later decide to study the language?

The EM credit initially awarded remains on the record, but some students may have lost a significant portion of their language proficiency in the intervening period. If students' skills in the language drop to a point where they must be placed in a class lower than that for which they qualified earlier, such students would register for that class as auditors. In doing so, an arrangement should be worked out with the instructor to ensure that helpful informal evaluation standards are employed during the semester.

10. What happens if students find that placement is unsatisfactory?

Although our examination/evaluation procedure has proven to be reliable, occasionally students may believe they should take a course either higher or lower. In such cases, students are asked to contact the appropriate language director to arrange an evaluation. If the placement is found to be too high, students can seek permission to drop back and audit a lower course. If the placement is too low, students may be given the opportunity to take an EM-credit test.

11. What if students have already taken an Advanced Placement Exam in a language?

Students who have successfully passed the Advanced Placement Examination are awarded credit and placement proportionate to the score obtained. These students do not normally need to take the OSU placement test, but when going through orientation they should verify that their scores have been received.

12. What happens to transfer students with college credit in a foreign language?

These students will normally register for the next OSU equivalent course in the sequence. They are not required to take the Placement Test. Such students should follow the Office of Admissions procedures for transfer credit and contact the Departmental Transfer Credit Coordinator. (Transfer students without language credit, however, must take the Placement Test.)

13. When should students take foreign language, in junior high or high school?

The fact is that most American students take foreign language in 9th and 10th grade, then quit just as they begin to develop usable language skills. They then have a two-year break in language study before entering college. Ideally, students would continue with language study, taking a 3rd or 4th year in 11th and 12th grade. For those who cannot or do not do so, we strongly recommend a review of basic grammar and vocabulary before they take the Placement Test.

14. Which foreign language credits count toward degree requirements?

Answers to this question will depend on the degree-granting unit (e.g., ASC, ENG, BUS, etc.). Students should check with their college offices, once they have decided on a major.

15. Are there circumstances for which the Placement Test requirement may be waived?

In the case of students with a learning disability, special arrangements and/or petitions may be initiated through the Office for Disability Services. If the students have been out of high school for over five years or are 22 years of age or older, the Placement Test need not to be taken unless they wish to begin at a level higher than 1101.01.

16. How about the Regional Campuses?

The same guidelines generally hold true for all OSU campuses.

GUIDELINES FOR AWARDING EM CREDIT IN THE FOREIGN LANGUAGES IN THE COLLEGES OF THE ARTS AND SCIENCES

Examination credit (EM) for proficiency in a foreign language must be given in accordance with Faculty Rule 3335-7-21 and subject to the following specific provisions:

1. that EM credit be given for specific courses (not -94) and the students be tested on specific material;
2. that EM credit be given to a student for courses in which he or she demonstrates a level of satisfactory proficiency, as specified by the department, on a placement or proficiency test;
3. that no student be given foreign language EM credit for 1101, 1102, or 1103 for language courses at any level for the primary language if he or she attended high school or its equivalent in his or her native country;
4. that EM credit be given to an American student who has attended a foreign university if such credit does not duplicate transfer credit from that university.
5. that EM credit in Italian shall not be awarded for 1102, 1103 or 2102 once a student has enrolled in any Italian course at a lower level (excepting those taught in English)

Careful attention should be given to the published policy that "a student may not obtain EM credit for a course which is prerequisite to one in which the student has earned college credit." This means that, as in other disciplines, a student who transfers from another university with K (transfer) credit in French 1103 cannot receive EM credit in French 1101 or 1102.

Validating Minimum Proficiency in a Foreign Language

Minimum proficiency in a foreign language must be validated in the following ways:

1. Successful completion of the third semester course in the language at this University (see Colleges of the Arts and Sciences Bulletin statement).
2. Examination and certification by the appropriate foreign language department in the college of students whose level of proficiency, however gained, is equivalent to that of a student who has passed the third semester course with a grade of "B-" (80%) or better.
3. Transfer credit from another accredited institution and certification by the appropriate language department in the college that such credit is the equivalent of the third and fourth regular university courses in that particular foreign language.

Questions about French EM Credit should be addressed to Dr. Julie Parson (parson.30@osu.edu). Questions about Italian EM credit should be directed to Dr. Ted Emery (emery.68@osu.edu).

Advanced Proficiency Tests

1. The following steps should be followed to obtain EM credit courses above 1103.
2. According to University policies, EM credit can be given for any course above 1103 with this limitation:
 - "In the Arts and Sciences a student may not obtain EM credit for a course which is a prerequisite to one in which he or she has earned college credit."
 - In addition, native speakers have restrictions on courses for which they can earn EM credit. Please check with the course bulletin for these restrictions.
3. The advanced proficiency test administrator should determine the student's eligibility before authorizing an examination. This person should see the student's record and verify that the rule about prerequisites is observed.
4. Students need to receive a B- (80) or above to receive EM credit.

TRANSFER/DEFERRED CREDIT PROCEDURES

A transfer student is one who has completed undergraduate studies at a university or college other than OSU, and transferred to a degree program at our institution.

Transfer credit is course credit granted by coordinators in the transfer credit center, Office of the University Registrar.

Most transfer credit is assigned automatically by credit coordinators upon admission where equivalent courses have been specified. In many cases, students receive general/unspecified transfer credit for courses taken in French or Italian at another accredited university or college. The general credit must be specified as French or Italian according to established equivalents. In these cases, students must contact the Department for the appropriate transfer credit advisor.

The following documents or information must be provided for proper specification of transfer credit:

General credit evaluation form prepared by a transfer credit coordinator in the transfer credit center, university registrar or downloaded from the student's DARS report.

Transcript from previous university or college which includes course work taken and credit earned in French or Italian there.

Syllabus for each French or Italian course for which general or specific transfer credit has been granted. Course descriptions from course offerings catalogues are usually not sufficient. Where syllabi are not available, textbooks, notes and papers from relevant courses may be used in the evaluation at the discretion of the credit coordinator.

Sequences of courses in the French or Italian program from the catalogue of previous college or university to show where the courses fall in the French or Italian program there.

NOTE: It is the student's responsibility to provide all required and requested information to facilitate the credit evaluation process. Transfer credit requests will remain pending until all required or requested information and documentation has been provided.

For further information contact the Transfer Credit Advisor for French, Dr. Julie Parson at parson.30@osu.edu, or the Transfer Credit Advisor for Italian, Dr. Ted Emery, at emery.68@osu.edu.

AUTHORIZATION TO TAKE COURSES AT OTHER US COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

General Information

1. Some students may wish to take a course or courses at other colleges and universities while they are away from the Columbus campus, especially during the summer.
2. The student should request and receive authorization from the appropriate departmental Transfer Credit Advisor (see below) prior to registering for any course(s) at another college or university. The student is responsible for clearing matters of appropriate accreditation of the institution in which he or she plans to study with the Admissions Office as well as the number of hours that would be transferred to Ohio State.
3. The student should provide the Transfer Credit Advisor with enough information to determine the appropriateness of the course(s) to be taken and the relation of the course(s) to the student's total program. Information required generally includes both the latest bulletin from the institution the student plans to attend including a description of the course(s), and a detailed course syllabus for each class to be taken. Syllabi normally must specify the text(s) used and the specific material covered. If necessary to determine equivalence to an OSU course, additional information may be requested at the Transfer Credit Advisor's discretion.
4. The granting of credit is dependent upon: (a) successful completion of the course with a grade eligible for transfer credit according to the University's policy, and (b) the completion and filing of appropriate paper work (see Step #7 below). If the department has stated a minimum grade for the equivalent OSU course (e.g., a minimum of C- for courses counted toward the major or minor), then the student's grade must meet that standard.
5. For authorization to take courses at other US colleges or universities, contact the Transfer Credit Advisor for French, Dr. Julie Parson at parson.30@osu.edu, or the Transfer Credit Advisor for Italian, Dr. Ted Emery, at emery.68@osu.edu.

Procedures

- Step 1 The student makes an appointment to see the Transfer Credit Advisor in the Department.
- Step 2 The student comes with the latest bulletin from the institution he or she plans to attend, and a detailed course syllabus. The student explains why he or she is requesting authorization for taking the course(s) in that institution.
- Step 3 The Departmental Transfer Credit Advisor verifies the accreditation of the institution. In case of doubt the Coordinator should call the Admissions Office.
- Step 4 The Advisor advises the student of his or her responsibility for verifying with Admissions and his or her college office the total number of hours to be transferred to Ohio State.
- Step 5 The Advisor reads the description of the course(s) from the bulletin, reviews the course syllabus, and determines: (a) if the course(s) fit(s) into the general plan of studies, (b) that the course does not duplicate one the student has already taken, and (c) that the rules on prerequisites are observed.
- Step 6 When the Transfer Credit Advisor has confirmed the accreditation of the college or university and determined the appropriate course equivalence, he or she will inform the student via email.
- Step 7 Upon completion of the course, the student arranges to have a transcript sent to the Transfer Credit Center in the Office of the Registrar. See instructions at https://registrar.osu.edu/transfer_credit/index.asp. The student informs the departmental Transfer Credit Advisor as soon as the course appears on the student's online Transfer Credit Report.

Step 8 The Transfer Credit Advisor consults the student's Transfer Credit Report to confirm that the course has been completed with an acceptable grade. The Advisor then files a Departmental Credit Evaluation form with the Transfer Credit Center.

PROCEDURES FOR EVALUATION OF STUDY ABROAD CREDIT FROM OSU-SPONSORED OR OSU-APPROVED PROGRAMS

Some general considerations:

1. Students should familiarize themselves with the curriculum of the study abroad program that they have selected and choose courses that are similar to those offered at OSU. The selection of courses will most often depend on the results of the placement test given by the study abroad program, thus making it difficult to decide ahead of time which courses to take.
2. Courses that are given in English abroad will not count toward courses for the major or minor. If a student decides to take a course in a content area other than one related to the study of French or Italian language, culture, literature or business, that course will generally not count toward the major or minor (e.g., a course in general linguistics, a course in math or chemistry, or English literature).
3. Should a student want to have a course taken abroad count for a GE Course, the student should contact the Department in question ahead of time. In these cases, students often have to make a case for counting the course as a GE Course and should keep syllabi, materials, etc. to contextualize the course.
4. In all cases, students should keep materials relating to the courses that they take in their study abroad programs: syllabi, tests, quizzes, papers, etc. These will help the Study Abroad Credit Evaluator assess the OSU equivalent of the courses taken abroad.
4. OIA gives general guidelines about the number of credits that students receive during their study abroad programs (at least 8 hours per semester that the student is studying abroad). The Department may give fewer or more than those suggested credit hours depending on the courses that the student took.

Upon returning to OSU:

1. Students will need to wait until their study abroad program sends their transcript to OSU. No official evaluation of credits can be made until that document is received. It should be noted that most institutions abroad have longer timelines for sending these transcripts than OSU.
2. After receipt of that document, students should contact the Study Abroad Credit Evaluator (Dr. Julie Parson in French at parson.30@osu.edu and Ms. Carla Onorato Wysokinski at wysokinski.1@osu.edu or onorato.carla@gmail.com). In some cases, individual appointments are not needed; the OIA study abroad coordinator will inform students if that is the case (e.g., summer program in Montpellier, France; Lecce and Siena programs in Italy).
3. Bring to the appointment all materials relating to the courses that were taken abroad. At that appointment, the study abroad credits will be converted into courses in French and Italian.

PRE-AUTHORIZATION TO TAKE COURSES AT NON-OSU APPROVED PROGRAMS AT INSTITUTIONS ABROAD

The Department generally does not preauthorize courses that students take at study abroad programs that are not approved or sponsored by OSU. The Department study abroad advisors (Prof. Diane Birckbichler birckbichler.1@osu.edu and Ms. Carla Onorato Wysokinski, wysokinski.1@osu.edu or onorato.carla@gmail.com) are available to go over courses with students to help them determine the possibility of getting credit. Credit will only be awarded upon the student's return and the proper processing of the study abroad transcript by the Registrar's office.

Students should be reminded that the credit granted from non-OSU approved programs is non-graded K credit. A variable number of K credits can be applied toward the major and 6 hours K credits toward the minor.

The U.S., Europe, and the Second World War: Intersections in 20th-Century History Integrated Semester – Study Tour (coursework in Spring semester and 3-week study tour in Europe during May session, conducted in English)

In this program, 20 Ohio State students from diverse disciplines and backgrounds will take a challenging group of history and culture courses in the Spring semester, meeting frequently in a small-class setting to exchange ideas, to discuss their research, and to prepare for the second portion of the program—a three-week tour of World War II sites, memorials, and museums in Europe (London, Normandy, Paris, and Berlin). French 3801, "French-American Culture Wars," may count as one of the four required courses to be taken before the May trip. This is a GE course in English that can count either toward the student's GE requirements or toward the major in French, or toward both if the student is a double major. See <http://history.osu.edu/courses/wwii-study-tour> for more information or contact Prof. Willging at willging.1.

Students interested in Study Abroad are encouraged to attend a Getting Started Session <https://oia.osu.edu/getting-started/getting-started-sessions.html> in Oxley Hall. Once you have attended a Getting Started Session and have specific questions related to the program you have chosen, you may set up an appointment with the assigned coordinator or visit his/her office hours or meet with the French Study Abroad Coordinator (Dr. Julie Parson, parson.30@osu.edu)

Students interested in Study Abroad should see the Scholarship Opportunities for Undergraduate Students in French and Italian section of this Handbook for information about FRIT scholarships for study abroad, as well as go to OIA's listing of the dozens of scholarships for study abroad the University offers: <https://oia.osu.edu/getting-started/grants-and-scholarships.html>
